PARTNERING WITH UNIFIED

When you choose a partner for your build projects, you want a company you know can deliver—on time, on budget and on value. Here are just a few of the reasons to choose Unified:

National presence: We serve clients on a national scale from the east to the west; thereby allowing our countrywide presence to better serve all your projects nationwide. This ensures you get just-in-time delivery of your products, right when you need them.

Volume buyer: As a national distributor of commercial and architectural door openings, we can competitively price your door, frame, and hardware projects to fit the defined budget as a total project and not just components required.

Streamlined services: Unified provides the same preconstruction services for our offsite construction clients as we do our onsite projects—we manage all door and hardware logistics, so that you can focus on the build.

Relationships with major manufacturers: Unified has proven working relationships with many major door hardware manufacturers. In addition to giving us access to a broad product portfolio, we are able to tap into their service centers for assistance and troubleshooting.

Synergy: Every modular construction project still has an on-site component, so we ensure what you're doing offsite will have synergy with the onsite build.

Industry knowledge: As a member of the Modular Building Institute, we stay current with the trends and thought leaders influencing permanent modular construction and relocatable buildings.

Unified Door & Hardware Group is a network of successful hardware distributors across the country. We serve both traditional and modular construction clients, offering products from nearly every major hardware manufacturer. We support you from design and build through install and service.
